

Gregory E. Smoak, Director of the American West Center and Associate Professor of History at University of Utah specializes in American Indian, American Western, Environmental, and Public History. He completed an MA at Northern Arizona University and a Ph.D. at the University of Utah. He has taught at Colorado State University and the University of Minnesota. He is the author of Ghost Dances and Identity: Prophetic Religion and American Indian Ethnogenesis in the Nineteenth Century and a forthcoming environmental history of Little Bighorn Battlefield National Monument. He is currently the principal investigator on three projects for the NPS at Pipe Spring National Monument and Zion National Park. Smoak's association with American West Center began in 1988 and has included projects with the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes, the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe, the Big Sandy Rancheria of Western Mono Indians, the Navajo Nation, the Nevada Indian Commission, and the Utah State Division of Indian Affairs. He has served on numerous committees for professional organizations including the National Council on Public History, the Organization of American Historians, and the Western History Association.