

TOPICS ON HEALTH & CULTURE IN SPANISH-SPEAKING COUNTRIES

“Topics on Health and Culture in Spanish-speaking Countries” (SPAN 3580) is a third-year course taught exclusively in Spanish. It integrates medical literature from specialized journals and books with additional authentic resources, including surveys, magazine and newspaper articles, common medical forms, health campaigns, and documentaries of health practices in Latin America and Spain. This course develops cultural competence through comparative analysis of the health concepts and practices of these countries.
