Course Readings	Macroeconomics, Krugman and Wells, 3 rd Edition
Course Overview	The economy is a system that harnesses human effort and other resources to provide material goods and services for people and Macroeconomics is simply the study of the economy, or this system, as a whole. In this course we will ask and attempt to answer questions such as: What leads to the wealth of nations? How is that wealth or success measured? What are other measures of economic wellbeing? We will discuss and define the determinants of national income, employment, prices, and growth. Specifically we will discuss macroeconomic policies and tools in the context of past and current economic events impacting the U.S. economy and other economies across the world.
Course Objective	The objective of this course is to introduce students to basic concepts within macroeconomics. By the end of the course you should be able to think economically, understand the "language" of economics, and understand basic principles such as inflation, unemployment, fiscal policy, monetary policy, etc., and their applications to modern economic thought and practice. You should also be able to see how these basic economic principles are present in current events, and should be able to use basic economic concepts to interpret/critique real world arguments.
Learning Approaches	This course employs a combination of lectures, readings, discussions, assignments (in and out of class), and exams to drive home the concepts and applications of macroeconomics. Class attendance and participation are strongly encouraged, are included in your final grade, and you are responsible for material covered if you miss class. The assigned readings should be completed before class, will be discussed in class, and homework assignments, due at the beginning of class, will come from both the assigned readings and class discussions. Quizzes may be given periodically as an incentive to be prepared for class. Please note that you will be called upon in class. You will also be asked to engage in Canvas Discussions on course-related current events or issues. There will be one mid-term exam and a comprehensive final exam. If you anticipate missing a test due to a time conflict, please notify me in advance. No make-up exams will be given if arrangements are not made before the exam dates.

Evaluation	Course Evaluation	Percentage
	Homework Assignments & Quizzes	20%
	In-Class Problems	10%
	Canvas Discussions	20%
	Mid-Term Exam	25%
	Final Exam	25%
	Total	100%
Grading Scale	Grades will be determined in accordance with Westminster College grading policies. The cutoff percentages for grading purposes are as follows: A = 94; A- = 90; B+ = 87; B = 83 ; B- = 80; C+ = 77; C = 73; C- = 70, D+ = 67; D=63; D- = 60; F &lt;60 Written feedback will be provided on all assignments, and more detailed feedback will be provided at any time upon request. If you believe you have received an incorrect grade on any assignment for this class, please bring it to my attention immediately. You are responsible to check Canvas to make sure your scores have been properly posted.
Exams	There will be two exams: one Midterm and one comprehensive Final. The Midterm exam will be held on Wednesday, March 4th and the Final exam will be held on Wednesday, April 29th. In very rare cases of extreme, unavoidable, and documented scheduling conflicts, individual students may arrange to take exams at a different time, which arrangements must be made well in advance of the scheduled exam time. Otherwise, failure to take an exam at the scheduled time will result in a failing score of zero (0) for the exam.
Homework Assignments	There will be weekly homework assignments (usually questions from the respective chapters). We will also do in-class problems and group assignments.
Canvas Discussions	During the semester you will participate in six separate Canvas Discussions for which there are various articles, blog posts, etc. posted in Canvas's Discussion forum for you comment on or discuss. You are required to review at least two of these items for each Canvas Discussion, enter into the discussion with specific and substantive comments in respect to the topic, separately comment (reply) to the posting(s) of at least one other student, and separately reply to comments made by at least one other student to one of your postings – this will result in you having crafted 3 separate and unique posts. The Canvas Discussions are not turned in as file submissions or email attachments; they're turned in through the Canvas Discussion function and are due no later than 1/25, 2/8, 2/22, 3/22, 4/5 and 4/19.
In-Class Problems	You will be presented with in-class problems and solution sets representing most of the major sections and concepts of the course. These are distributed during class, are worked on in groups, and must be completed and turned in by the end of class. These will cover some of the important graphic models and equational forms developed through the various sections of the course. In-Class Problems and their solutions are used to complement the text and class discussions and are available through www.richardhaskell.net.

Instructional Primers	Instructional Primers have been prepared for many of the major sections and concepts of the course; some of these are associated with In-Class problems. These primers have been created to help you better understand some of the technical dynamics of economic models and equational forms and can be found through www.richardhaskell.net . These are intended to complement the text and class discussions.

College Information	Westminster College is committed to providing a working and learning atmosphere that reasonably accommodates qualified persons with disabilities. If you have any disability that may impair your ability to complete this course successfully, please contact the Office of Disability Services, specifically Ginny DeWitt, Disability Services Coordinator, in the START Center (801-832-2280). Reasonable academic accommodations are reviewed for all students who have qualified, documented disabilities. Services are coordinated with the student and instructor by the Disability Services Office. If you need assistance or if you feel you have been unlawfully discriminated against on the basis of disability, you may seek resolution through established grievance policy and procedures by contacting the Office of the General Counsel at 801-832-2565. Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 prohibits sex discrimination against any participant in an educational program or activity that receives federal funds. The act is intended to eliminate sex discrimination and harassment in education. Title IX covers discrimination in programs, admissions, activities, and student-to-student sexual harassment. Westminster College’s policy against sexual harassment extends not only to employees of the college but also to students. If you encounter unlawful sexual harassment or gender-based discrimination (including discrimination or harassment based on sexual orientation), you can speak with your professor, contact the Title IX Coordinator, Trisha Teig, 801-832-2235 or call one of the Deputy Coordinators: Mark Ferne, 801-832-2233 or Shelley Jarrard, 801-832-2340. You may also wish to contact the Office of the General Counsel at 801-832-2565. Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibits discrimination based on race, color or national origin in any program or activity receiving federal financial assistance. The Department of Education has interpreted Title VI as prohibiting racial harassment, and such harassment is prohibited in all facets of campus life at Westminster College. If you encounter this type of discrimination/harassment, you can contact the Office of the General Counsel at 801-832-2565.
